CORNELL UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

REPORT OF THE LIBRARIAN

1939-40

To the President of the University:

SIR: I have the honor to submit the report of the Librarian of the University Library for the year ended June 30, 1940.

If the growth of libraries and the expansion of library service may be taken as a measure of the cultural progress and as a gauge of the intellectual and educational level of a nation, the people of the United States may be justly proud of the records of the current century in this field. Mere numbers, to be sure, are not the sole criterion of excellence; yet it is not without significance that not many years ago our national library, the Library of Congress, which now (June 1939) numbers 8,470,744 books, pamphlets, pieces of music, maps and views, exceeded the world's hitherto largest libraries, the Bibliothèque Nationale in Paris and the Library of the British Museum in London. For many years the libraries of Harvard University (4,079,541 items, June 1939) have far outdistanced any single European university.

The share of Cornell University in this phase of American expansion has not been insignificant. The total for libraries on the campus is now 1,063,293 items. It is true that for several decades after the beginning of the century, and particularly during the universal decline that followed the World War, the libraries of Cornell University did not succeed in holding their own with a number of other university libraries. This did not mean that Cornell libraries ceased to grow, but that others, especially a number of Western and Midwestern state-subsidized university libraries, grew and continue to grow more rapidly. In recent years, however, there has been a noticeable change in this respect. The following table will give a rough idea of the fluctuations in growth of the general University Library at Cornell.

BOOKS ADDED

1899-1900.....	14,128	1924-1925.....	13,708
1904-1905 (Fiske gifts)	25,676	1929-1930.....	13,117

1914-1915.....	12,627	1938-1939.....	15,684
1919-1920 (Wason gift)	22,414	1939-1940.....	16,359

The income from library endowment funds has not yet recovered from the decline which followed the depression of the early thirties. As early as 1936-37 increased appropriations by the Trustees from the University's general funds helped to counteract the shortage in library endowment income. There were further increases in the following years. In addition to these the University Library was fortunate in each of the years 1938-39 and 1939-40 to receive a special grant of $5,000 from the President's Surplus Fund. These windfalls did much to relieve the growing feeling of despair on the Campus at the apparent retrogression in library development. May they be a happy omen for a not too distant future, which will see the Library restored to a position commensurate with the growth and expansion of the University as a whole. In this connection the Librarian ventures to renew his recommendation that the consideration of a possible addition to the present building (if a new building cannot be obtained) be not deferred until congestion begins to work havoc in the orderly handling and shelving of our books.

The total number of books added to the University Library in 1939-40 was 16,359 as against 15,684 in 1938-39. This has placed a severe strain upon an Accessions, Classification, and Cataloguing staff, which was inadequate even before the recent acceleration in growth began. This, together with the antiquated equipment and the crowded quarters in which their work has to be done, out of sight of the public eye, prompts the Librarian to offer a word of grateful commendation to all those who have given their best efforts under trying circumstances. From the disadvantage of working under unfavorable crowded conditions the Librarian himself was freed by the generous action of the President, when the Librarian's old quarters were exchanged for a newly appointed, well-lighted, commodious office with an ante-room for the Librarian's Secretary, secured by remodelling the large room on the mezzanine floor of the library building, formerly used by the Sage School of Philosophy. Comparatively little space was gained for the expansion of cataloguing activities, but the installation of a new and adequate system of indirect lighting has made a marked difference in working conditions in the Catalogue Room.

The Library Council (now officially designated the Library Board), which was reorganized in 1938, held five meetings during the past year. It continued its deliberations on the survey of the campus book situation made by its special assistant, Mr. William H. Hyde, jr. The discussions culminated in a plan for a readjustment of the book fund allotment scheme of the University Library.

During the early part of the past year Mr. Hyde continued his work of revising the figures for the general survey of the use of book funds on the whole campus and also catalogued all books of the Library of the College of Architecture which had not been represented in the union catalogue in the University Library building. For several months Mr. Hyde was loaned to the Dean of the College of Engineering to assist in the reorganization of the united libraries of the Schools of Mechanical and of Electrical Engineering. In February 1940 Mr. Hyde was released from his duties with the Library Board and was appointed Librarian of the Mechanical and Electrical Engineering Library.

ACCESSIONS

The total amount expended for books, periodicals, and bindings was $37,028. The total number of items added to the University Library was 16,359, of which 10,878 were for the general library, the remainder going to special collections. For the general library 6,414 were purchased and 4,464 were received as gifts.

Some of the accessions to special collections are worthy of comment. The greatest growth was in the Chinese collection. GIFTS

The names entered on our donors list number 744. Of the 10,878 volumes added to the general library 4,464 were gifts as against 6,414 volumes purchased. The number of periodicals which come to us as gifts (1,283) is notable. To the publishers and editors of these periodicals we are duly grateful. Many learned societies, foundations, corporations, state and foreign government agencies are donors of long standing in our list. Our debt of gratitude to them grows greater with the years. Among the personal donors, to whom we offer collective and individual thanks, are many members of the faculty and officers of the University. Their continued generosity is a source of gratification to the Librarian as well as to their colleagues and their students.

A valuable gift to the Wason Chinese Collection was the "Ta Ch'ing li ch'ao shih lu" (Veritable records of the Ch'ing dynasty) a photolithographic quarter-size reproduction of state papers and edicts of Ch'ing emperors, who ruled China from 1644 to 1911. The work as described by Miss Gaskill, Curator of the collection, consists of 1,220 volumes in 122 yellow brocade cases. It was published by the government of Manchoukuo in 1937, and Cornell received its copy through the kind offices of Mr. Cabot Coville, of the Class of 1923, Secretary of the American Embassy in Tokyo, in answer to an appeal from Professor Biggerstaff.

Professor Broughton, Curator of the Wordsworth Collection was enabled to add, through the generous aid of Mr. Victor Emanuel, Class of 1919, letters in Wordsworth's hand, at least three of which are unpublished, association books from Wordsworth's library, including Wordsworth's own copy of the Bishops' Bible (1585), a large and miscellaneous package of Coleridge manuscripts, and a long letter from Edward Everett to Henry Taylor on Wordsworth's death and fame.

Mr. Russell Tarr of the Class of 1915 gave to the University the library of his father, the late Ralph S. Tarr, Professor of Physical Geography at Cornell. It consisted of 980 bound volumes and a large number of pamphlets and maps mostly on geology and geography. From the estate of the late Professor Charles H. Hull, through the courtesy of Miss Mary Hull, we received numerous documents and maps connected with local and with general American history.

As in past years Mr. and Mrs. William F. E. Gurley have donated many additions, chiefly to our collection of Shakespeareana. The Hon. William Sulzer and Mr. Carter Kingsley have likewise continued their donations.

Professor Morris Bishop has repeated his gift of $100 and given a number of books in addition. Mr. Elmer Johnson again sent us a check for $15. Mr.

Henry R. Ickelheimer sent $63.50 to enable us to continue his former gifts of the earlier volumes of Venturi's "Storia dell' Arte", and Mrs. Louise F. Peirce added $36 to her gifts of past years.

OTTO KINKELDEY,
Librarian.
